From the get-a-big-red-pen department:

This week's task list has something old, something new, nothing borrowed and things to review. If you haven't dipped your toe in the document writer waters yet, there are some good tasks for beginners this week.

1. The   section had both new information added and a complete refactoring. We need someone to work through all the pages and make sure the information is complete and accurate.
2. The   section was created after we found a lack of info for ths feature. It's a small section, and a good review can be done in 30 minutes or less
3. The   section was not worked on last week. Any takers this week?
4. the   section has not been completed yet. This is a new feature for 1.10, so if you're running 1.10, please take a few moments to sketch out this feature.
5. The   feature documentation needs a lot of work. If you're using this feature, take a few minutes to add your knowledge to

Have a great week and keep writing!