Hello All,

There are some necessary steps in order to get Tiki working on a SourceForge project website. This is located at <http://tikiwiki.org/SourceForgeTikiInstall>. This info would fit well in the "Installation >> AdvancedSettings" section of the doc structure. Can someone add a page called SourceForge to the structure?

Thanks,

-Jim Kring (jkring)

This doc is intended to be delivered as printable documentation, I'm not sre we should include such specific information in the standard documentation although we can sure put indicate that it exists.

SourceForge web hosting is an example of a shared-hosting service that has some pretty unique requirements. If, instead of detailed instructions, you would prefer to simply state that there are special requirements and that installation instructions are available on tw.o, that is fine with me. I would add this info to "Installation >> Advanced Settings >> Shared Hosting"

Cheers,

-Jim
